As part of CSR, RGU provides school kits to 50 KG students

RONO HILLS, Mar 3: As part of Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) of Rajiv Gandhi University (RGU), Dr Vaishali, the better half of university vice chancellor Prof Saket Kushwaha, donated school kits to around 50 kindergarten students of the university's women community-run and RGU-adopted Balvatika, a preparatory school at the RGU campus. She also provided home cooked food to the students and staff and took meal with them as a gesture of her love for them. During her interactions with the students of Balvatika, she urged upon them to pay attention to their daily studies and maintain discipline in their life. She emphasized that it is time to develop good habits. She advised the students to respect their parents, teachers and elders. She also gave some tips to maintain hygiene and to have good food habits. Further, Dr Vaishali appreciated the efforts of the teachers of Balvatika for their selfless services. On the sidelines of the event, RGU Jt Registrar Dr David Pertin while thanking Dr Vaishali for the noble gesture urged other members of the community, vast alumni, and well-wishers to come forward and join the CSR activities to help in the growth and development of the university. He informed that recently the students from the department of Fine Arts have done commendable mural paintings in the walls of Balvatika and in the Govt Sec School located at the campus adding to their aesthetic beauty and surroundings, which have boosted the conducive environment in both the temples of learning. Among others, Dr Maltesh Mottebennur, consultant of University Library, and teachers of Balvatika - Meyo Taba, Deepa Jaishy, Sanchita Sur, Mahuya Roy and S Begum expressed their gratitude to Dr Vaishali and the university administration for providing infrastructure like furniture, books, etc and for extending all support to the growth of the pre-primary school.
